Machine Translated by Google

Bank of refusals

63 examples

by week and type

Machine Translated by Google

The bank is used in two ways: the participant scrolls through and recognizes himself - this reduces the barrier to first refusal

Week 1 - Tactical Level

Refusals from specific actions today

Meetings and calls

1. Canceled the weekly status call with the team and replaced it with an asynchronous voice message.
2. Didn't go to a meeting that could have been held in a 5-minute call
3. I refused the call where I was invited. "just listen"
4. Rescheduled a meeting with the contractor - no a specific question, then, it's too early to meet
5. Did not agree to be “in touch” in day off

Machine Translated by Google

6. Removed all meetings from my day before 10 am - this is my time for work 7. Refused to have lunch with a person from whom I don't expect anything and to whom I can't help you in any way

Tasks and operating system

8. Didn't respond to the incoming request himself - forwarded to the manager

9. Removed a task from the list that it's been postponed for three weeks already: if three I haven't done it for weeks - so it's not necessary

10. I didn’t make a presentation where a letter is enough

11. Refused to personally check a report that the team had already checked.

12. Don't try to "improve" the result already good enough

Machine Translated by Google

13. I removed watching the news from my mornings and replaced it with 10 minutes of silence.

14. Didn't reply to the message in the messenger right away - replied after 3 hours, nothing happened

Communication

15. Didn't write a long explanation where "no" is enough

16. Refused to chat with someone who could have ended the conversation with one call for 2 minutes

17. Didn't make excuses for the decision, which has already been accepted

18. Removed myself from a group chat where I had long been just an observer

19. Didn't respond to a letter that didn't require my response.

Machine Translated by Google

20. Refused to comment on someone else's a decision that doesn't concern me

21. Didn't write "Got it, I'll do it" for a task I don't intend to do.

Machine Translated by Google

Week 2 - Structural Level

Waivers of regular obligations, which systematically consume resources

Regular formats

22. Removed the weekly planning meeting, which had not been attended for the last two months.
not a single decision is made

23. Refused to submit a monthly report that no one reads
- suggested alternative

24. Closed a project that was "almost ready" for six months already

25. Removed calls from the schedule with a client who is not making decisions

26. Refused to participate in the working group, which he joined out of politeness six months ago.

27. Stopped making a weekly digest that the team doesn't open.

Machine Translated by Google

28. Removed the morning "status update" in the general chat - no one responded, I did it for myself

Delegation and roles

29. Stopped personally approving all invoices up to 50,000 - delegated it to the financial director

30. Refused to be the only contact for a key client - introduced manager

31. I stopped writing posts on social networks myself - I handed them over to an editor with final authority words

32. Removed himself from the hiring approval chain for positions below management

33. Refused to personally negotiate with small contractors

Machine Translated by Google

34. I stopped participating in office life planning - it’s not my job

35. Removed myself from all team emails - "just to be in the know."

External obligations

36. Refused to speak at the event, which does not match mine priorities of this quarter

37. Did not renew membership in an organization where he had not been for the last eight months

38. Refused a partnership that was “interesting in theory” but did not advance the business

39. Removed the conference from my year, which I drive out of habit, not out of meaning

40. Refused to be a mentor to another one to a person - I already have a limit

41. I refused to join the board of directors of a company where I don’t see a role for myself.

Machine Translated by Google

42. I refused a collaboration that requires my time but only produces someone else's results.

Machine Translated by Google

Week 3 - Identity Level

Relinquishing beliefs, roles and patterns, that control behavior

Beliefs about control

43. Stopped being a person who should know everything that is happening in companies

44. I gave up the belief that “if you want something done well, do it yourself.”

45. I stopped checking the work of people I trust - trust doesn't require it.
checks

46. Removed the “last thing” from my system word" on issues in which my team more competent

47. Stopped redoing things that people did “not the way I would have done it.”

Machine Translated by Google

Beliefs about accessibility

48. Refused the role of “always available” - introduced unavailability hours and reported team

49. Stopped responding to messages within the first hour of waking up

50. Removed the belief that not responding quickly means letting someone down

51. I gave up the habit of “being in the know.” all chats - stopped reading things that don't require action

52. Stopped taking my phone to all meetings - presence is more important than availability

Beliefs about growth

53. I gave up on a new direction that “could have taken off” - I already had there is something that shoots

54. Stopped saying "yes" to everything interesting - interesting does not equal important

Machine Translated by Google

55. Removed from the strategy the goal that sounds nice, but not mine

56. Refused to hire another person to the team - the problem is not in the people, and in the processes

57. Stopped scaling anything that isn't working stably yet.

Beliefs about relationships

58. I refused to maintain relationships with people from whom I lose energy

59. Stopped explaining my decisions by who didn't ask

60. Removed from life the obligation to “be useful” to everyone who turns to me

61. Refused to be a "problem solver" for people who don't want to solve their own problems.

62. Stopped apologizing for boundaries, which he installed himself

Machine Translated by Google

63. Gave up on a relationship I was in always the initiator - if it's important to a person, he

he will write it himself

Machine Translated by Google

How to use the bank

If you're having trouble finding your refusal in the morning, open your bank and find something that resonates. This isn't a to-do list, but a mirror. If you recognize yourself, you've found your refusal.